Removal of Serra Statue Involves City Policy Query

A proposal to remove the wooden statue of Junipero Serra from its present location at the south-west corner of Devendorf Park to some other location was discussed at yesterday afternoon's meeting of the Carmel City Planning Commission, with the matter undecided and referred to a committee consisting of Commissioners Florence Josselyn, Hugh Smith and Dorothy von Meier. The original proposal came from the Carmel Business Association, supplemented by The Carmel Art Association, for the purpose of preventing vandalism.

This brought up the matter of policy in regards to allowing statues and memorials to be erected on public property. It was pointed out that in 1948 the City Council effected a ruling against memorialization of individuals to be placed in Devendorf Park, after the bust of J. F. Devendorf was

The Junipero statue appears to have been a WPA project in 1939. Up until the present time, nobody has thought much about removing the carving from its present site; but now that some agitation has been initiated, no agreement can be reached as to where to put it, since there is some sentiment to leave it where it is.

Other action by the Planning Commission discussed the matter of deciding to what height property owners may build fences, and under what conditions. To deprive an adjoining property owner of light and view was considered against public policy, especially in view of the fact that city ordinances do not define what is a fence, concerning materials and design, and whether or not shrubs and trees constitute a fence. The whole matter was referred to the Land Use and Zoning Committee.

The Commission approved a variance requested by August Nieto for the remodeling of a building on Mission Street. Also approved were certain details of plans for a theatre building at Dolores and Seventh. Floodlighting of buildings and erection of directional signs brought out reference to existing ordinances, with a recommendation that four words, "sign areas are excepted," be eliminated from the ordinance on Illumination of Buildings.

From 1959-1962 he served as an assistant professor of education in the Graduate School of Education at Harvard University; and since 1962 has been Associate Professor of Education in the School of Education at the University of California, Berkeley. He presently serves on numerous national and state committees and organizations. He has written for many educational and scientific publications and is a widely sought-after consultant and speaker. # Citizens' Demand To Limit Building Comes To A Head

Over two hours of last night's City Council meeting was given over to the perennial question of what to do about curbing Carmel's ever-threatening building explosion, with a number of local property owners attempting to get across to the council their demands for a very definite commitment by the city fathers to spell out in terms of legislative action positive limits to future expansion.

ACCIDENT VICTIMS IMPROVING

Thomas Blair Phinney and Thaddeus Killar are reported to be improving at the Community Hospital following an auto accident in Carmel Valley early Monday morning. They were taken to the hospital by the Carmel Valley Volunteer Fire Department.

Mr. Phinney was the driver of the car, which unexplainably left the road at a curve and struck a bridge rail on Esquiline road, 300 feet north of Los Ositos road.

Specifically, there appears to be a very lively and articulate sentiment in favor of "no more motels or hotels, no supermarkets, no multi-story buildings of any kind, with stated restrictions on bulk and area coverage of not only commercial buildings, but overlarge dwellings as well."

Mayor Herbert B. Blanks reiterated that he had confidence that the Planning Director and the Planning Commission were doing a good job, and could be trusted to supervise planned construction under the present ordinances. Floyd Adams, as Director of Planning, stated, however, that something more is needed to supplement the ordinances, in the form of a definite statement of policy to be followed in the restrictions desired. Councilman Norberg tenaciously stated that there should be a definite control on height, bulk and area of all future commercial buildings, disregarding the mistakes of the past, and to make a firm stand here and now to stop future "monoliths" from raising their ugly heads.

Councilman Whittlesey expressed the opinion that the whole matter could be left to the good incentives, imagination and artistic concepts in the individual instances, as is already being performed through the Planning Commission.

Speaking for the Carmel Citizens Committee, Admiral C. W. Fisher appealed to the Council to consider that the time is ripe for the very definite establishment of specific guide lines to keep Carmel within the bounds of a "residential village," and to spell out restrictions on speculative or commercial pressures to change Carmel for the worse. He further pointed out that his committee has been agitating for this action over a number of years, and it is imperative that no time be lost to prevent Carmel becoming a part of California's "creeping junkyard."

In other action, the City Council sent to the City Attorney its directives for a revised Health and Sanitation Ordinance which provides changes in the regulations for garbage disposal, compulsory collection of garbage, with joint liability of tenant and owner for compliance, and with certain exceptions for vacant or unoccupied premises, or those with little or no garbage accumulations.

The City also accepted a pickup truck, fully equipped, as a gift from the Volunteer Fire Department, which is to be used for gasoline washdown calls, and the like, to eliminate the use of larger and more expensively operated equipment.

To further consolidate and actuate the proposed restrictions on commercial buildings, a special meeting of the City Council was set for April 21 at 8:00 p.m.

Creativity And Self Reliance Is Goal Of Educational Program In Carmel Unified District Schools

By HARRY FLETCHER

Some forty years ago, when I was teaching school, the main topic of interest among educators seemed to be "How to Make Education Easier for the Teacher." Conditions and teachers, administrators and facilities have changed in the interim. Now the one and only consideration appears to be, "What Can We Do to Improve Educational Opportunities and Facilities for the Students."

This has been brought to light through at tendance at school board meetings, examination of reports by committees and administrators, and recommendations of the teaching staffs of our various schools.

At Tularcitos elementary school, for instance, Principal William Mallek and his staff are in process of "Preparedness for a more advanced academic program of reading, phonics, numbers, literature and science, without losing sight of childrens' needs for the flexible activities of Kindergarten." Other factors of consideration are: Parental understanding and approval; regrouping according to mental ability and learning capabilities and potentials.

Taken from the Carmel Unified Administrative report, the following further points up the present day trend to improved methods:

"Members of our intermediate school science staff are in the process of developing an expanded science program which, in a very tentative fashion, looks like the following:

Science 5A: Beginning studies in measurement. Approach will be by student manufacture of measuring devices through activities in calibration. The appreciation for standard units in time, linear capacity, mass and temperature will be discovered.

Science 6A: Physical Science I Poriented with emphasis on properties of matter, chemistry and heat. Science 6B: Life Science I oriented with emphasis on the study of plants, and use of micro-

Science 7A: Health, with studies in bodily processes and first aid. Science 7B: Life science with the animal phase of the biological sequence. Science 8A: Magnetism, electricity, light and sound. Science 8B: Natural science with new materials in biology. Science 8AP: (Advanced) An entire year's study into the concepts of earth phenomena."

From the Board of Education comes a Summary of Remarks by Dr. Charles Bish, director of a Talent Project sponsored by the National Education Society. The most important findings are that:

"There is no one measure by which students may be judged talented. A student may be strong in communicative skills and less strong in mathematics, or vice versa. The IQ test and other tests never should be used as exclusive valuation of a student's potential; other means, including thoughtful appraisal of teachers, also must be applied. Creativity is a vital factor. Some will be strong in intelligence and some in creativity; a very few will be strong in both The person with high intelligence can only go so far without creativity; the person with creativity and moderate intelligence can go as

From these and other findings, Dr. Bish summarized as follows: "No longer can education be operated in egg-crate classrooms with classes neatly fitted into time slots. There must be adjustments in facilities and flexible scheduling. Students must be considered as individuals, each to receive the instruction best suited to his needs."

All this is an obvious step in the right direction. Gone is the era when school children were coddled and entertained. Now the trend is to get at the very heart of education, which is to bring out the best in every student by making him self-reliant, and unimpeded in his eagerness to make the most of his capabilities and opportunities.

I don't know if I'll get the column written today or not. I'm so sore I can hardly hold a pencil and I'm afraid typing might break my arm. I got talked into taking the kids to exercise night at Junfor High School last night. Ouch! They tell me I'll be glad if I keep on, though. They say you get so you actually can do some of those crazy contortions George Mosolf puts you through. And I know it is a wonderful thing—if you can take it. It's Carmel Unified School District's adult physical education classes every Monday and Wednesday night. The mothers and dads go to improve their waistlines and the kids go to improve their trampoline. And I must say, the teenagers playing volley ball were patient and courteous beyond the call of duty to let us old codgers in.

They say that if I keep these exercises up. I'll feel like a million. Never mind. I feel like I'm a million already.

Mr. Paul Vial and Beau the Poodle were enjoying the peace and beauty of the Point the other windy afternoon when, all of a sudden, a white kite rose up in front of their noses. They had just time to read what it said, "Welcome Home, J.P." before it disappeared into infinity. Eventually, a gang of little boys appeared and Mr. Vial discovered the reason for this bit of science fiction.

him home and this was his pals' way of showing him how glad they are to have him back. He will stay with Grandmother Elsie Oberfohren until his parents return in June. Johnny says he was crazy about the snow in Germany and Switzerland but he's awfully glad to be back on the sand at Carmel Beach.

We had dinner at the Mission Ranch last weekend and afterwards stopped to sing a couple of songs with the group around Jackie's piano. We were there until they threw us out at 2:00 a.m. But we didn't really like it much. What are all those young kids doing in there singing our songs?

We're so glad the MPC bond passed. Now, we can take the bricks off the children's heads and let 'em go ahead and grow up. We'll be able to afford college for them, after all.

There is a high school student who deserves a medal for his help in that election. Parking was quite a problem at the Carmel High School precinct, as many of you found out. During his lunch hour this young man either parked people's cars for them or sat in them double-parked until they'd voted. I tried to get his name when I came out but he was too busy dressing down a No voter.

That's the keen kind of kid. There is another kind, one of whom has a Honda with license number 292927. On busy days he loves to park on Ocean and sit there smirking while shoppers drive frantically round and round looking for a place. But he's somebody's son, so I resisted the urge to smash his bike and parked at Purity as usual.

Well, I suppose I'm really asking for it now. But I'm the adventurous type, so here goes.

George Washington was dull-I've been reading up on him because I wanted to do a laudatory little piece for the occasion. And I will. But I just had to get that off my chest first. George Washington was a soldier beyond compare and an athlete of great skill and strength. He had tremendous self control, rarely showed his temper, and was thoughtful and considerate of all. He was extremely modest and painfully punctual. He was a good father to his step-children and a faithful, loving, hard working husband. People have said that he never smiled. This is a lie. There are four distinct recorded instances of Mr. Washington's smiling.

He does seem to have had no sense of humor, though. However, once his extraordinary diplomacy sort of forced him into a bit of a quip. He was asked by French revolutionist Constantin Volney for a letter of recommendation to the American people. There were reasons why Washington couldn't give such a letter but also, reasons why he didn't want to refuse. So he wrote: "C. Volney needs no recommendation from Geo. Washington."

Washington had very advanced ideas about education, some of which are approved of even today. West Point Academy was his idea, by the way. He was very well read and enjoyed quoting such intellectual giants as Addison and Shakespeare. He was very particular about his dress and grooming, but never a fop. As a surveyor and civil engineer he had no equal and of course, as President of the United States he was A No. 1.

These are the two things I found most interesting about George:

His birthday was nationally celebrated as early as 1782, 17 years before his death. Earlier than that, in colonial days, the birthdays of Great Britain's king and queen were occasions of festivity.

His first love was Mary Phillipse, an Englishwoman strongly dedicated to the royal cause. Just think what would've happened if he had married her and gone over to their side. Why, we wouldn't have all those Stuart portraits hanging around and we'd never have heard that silly cherry tree story and we wouldn't be getting out of school next Monday.

I do have a dandy recipe for cherry crunch, though, and I'll give it to anybody who can change my mind about the above.

Airman Robert T. Chittenden, USN, son of Mrs. Frances C. Chittenden of Carmel, participated in a one-day cruise for 50 representatives of the Navy League while serving aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Iwo Jima, operating out of San Diego.

The Navy League, a civilian organization concerned with the role the Navy plays in national security, was from Southern California and the Arizona areas.

The representatives were given a one-day cruise where they received a detailed tour of the ship, observed helicopter operations, a gunnery exercise, and ate dinner with the crew in the general mess. Senator Farr Visits Son

Senator Fred S. Farr is returning this weekend after a flying trip to Medellin, Colombia for a brief visit with his son, Sam, who was here last month on emergency leave from the Peace Corps and returned to his post shortly before his mother's death on January 31. En route to see his son, Senator Farr stopped off in New Orleans to take part in the U.S. Commissioner's Conference on Uniform Laws.

Francesca Farr is also going to see her brother and will continue on to other Latin American countries before returning to begin practice teaching at the University of Arizona.

An enthusiastic booster of the Peace Corps' work, Sam said he felt lucky to be working in Barrio Castillo of Medellin, where most people have jobs and poverty is less extreme than in many places he might have been sent. With his Colombian counterparts and three other Peace Corps members, all volunteers, he is working to help build a school and communication center for the 40,000 residents of the slum area. They are also establishing a literacy project, using the Laubach method so successful in Mexico-"Each one teach one." Although he finds progress slow, and often discouraging, he is optimistic about eventual re-

Sam's small adobe house, blessed with a kitchen, is in the sector where the projects are being carried out, and he purchases food in the same markets his neighbors use. Perhaps the kitchen is a mixed blessing-he lost fifteen pounds on his home-cooking!

Medellin, a city of around a million inhabitants, is the capital of the mineral-rich, coffee producing state of Antioquia. It is the industrial center of the country and is renowned for its Springlike climate and growing of orch-

Although there is little time for Corps volunteers to visit other areas of their assigned countries, Sam reported that during his brief vacation he did manage to visit the island of San Andres for some sight-seeing and skin diving.

While discussing his experiences in Colombia, Sam mentioned that Carmel is represented by three other volunteers in the Peace Corps. Barbara Dahl, of Carmel Valley, is at a rural site in northern Colombia, Charles Agle is in Peru, and Frank Wallace is working in Nepal.

The net profits of the Thrift Shop for the month of March will be allocated to the Children's Home Society.

Following discussion of fund raising projects, the majority voted in favor of one project, to be determined later, for the Fall of this year.

• The resignation of Mrs. Arthur H. Black, who is joining Colonel Black in Germany, was accepted with regret.

Outstanding Student Achievement Stresses Importance Of Support For Guide Dog Training Program

If reasons are necessary for supporting the campaign of the Monterey Peninsula Committee of Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc., one of the most compelling is the record of achievements of Barbara Jean Radley of Seaside and her guide dog, Kalla, a Golden Retriever. Kalla will be at the side of her youthful owner at the ceremonies when the class of 1965 graduates this June. This will be the second commencement ceremony for Kalla, who graduated from Guide Dogs for the Blind, Inc. at San Rafael.

Although Barbara Jean is eighteen, she has had formal training only since the age of eleven. Nevertheless, her name has been on the honor roll for the past two years, and she has shown exceptional talent in music and drama and is at present enrolled in advanced give e club and drama courses. She also excels at public speaking and has successfully participated in numerous speech tournaments, winning a second prize at a recent meet.

Barbara Jean's cheerful disposition and sensitivity to the problems of others point to success in her ultimate goal of becoming a youth or church counselor after a college major in social work. With this end in view, the determined young lady wrote to more than 40 universities and colleges before learning that facilities at Biola College at La Mirada would make learning there comparatively easy for a blind person. She was particularly heartened to hear this from Clarence Rose, a member of the staff who is himself blind and a guide dog owner.

With encouragement from him, she is working now to meet the institution's exacting entrance requirements. "If I don't have the requirements to enter in 1965," she says, "then I'll take correspondence courses next year, and Kalla and I will go to college in 1966—because we are going to get a college education!"

Barbara Jean's determination to make a self-supporting place for herself in the community underlines one of the basic precepts of the Guide Dog program, which is to enable the visually handicapped to become self-sufficient.

At the guide dog school in San Rafael, dogs are especially bred and trained to insure those characteristics that will make responsible guides. Only those which pass the rigid testing and training standards are chosen, and to assure that they will be amiable companions for their blind masters, the dogs are placed first with 4-H Club members who provide them with a loving home-life from the age of thirteen weeks to a year.

Following this period, the dogs return to school for intensive training prior to their final month-long schooling there with their future masters. The cost of the entire program, including the final in-residence training, amounts to $1,850 per man-dog unit. No charge is made to the recipient of a dog, and contributions from the Western states and Canada, which the school serves, help maintain the entire project.

Mr. Linnig is from Chicago, Illinois, where he was once a music conservatory student, and later became division manager of a national food supply company. ## Pianist Grant Johannesen Gives Symphony Orchestra Inspiration And Challenge At Sunset Concert

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

The February concert of the Monterey County Symphony at Sunset Auditorium under the direction of John Gosling carried the orchestra into new high ground as it featured the brilliant young American pianist Grant Johannesen in a performance of the difficult second piano concerto of Brahms. Seldom, if ever, has the orchestra been privileged to provide accompaniment for a soloist of such capacity and established international reputation. Without detracting from the work of orchestra and conductor it must be admitted that the performance of the concerto demonstrated the manner in which a really fine soloist can help a community orchestra to outdo itself and respond to inspiration. Such concerts provide a very worthwhile stimulus to the many young musicians of the orchestra.

The program consisted of only three works, providing however, a wide range of musical interest. Aaron Copland's Lincoln Portrait was a timely and topical opening selection for which the narration was very effectively done by Stephen Bishop, well-known local actor. If some of the fine prose of the narration was obscured by the musical accompaniment, the fault lay less with orchestra and speaker than it did with the acoustic problems inherent in the spacial limitations of the stage and size of the orchestra. The majestic and somewhat mystic sonority of the opening passages gave way to a number of creditably executed instrumental solos. Strings were resonant and unified. Continuity and mood of the music were effectively maintained and the whole was most satisfying.

With the playing of the Haydn Symphony 95 there was a demonstration, if one was needed, that an orchestra can play all the notes with a reasonable degree of accuracy and yet fail to communicate the spirit and meaning of the work it is performing. The strings gave a good account of themselves in the first movement, but seemed to lack conviction in the second. The concert master provided firm leadership and fine instrumental quality in his playing. In the last movement everything pulled together better and achieved a fairly satisfying finale.

Haydn is deceptive, seemingly less complicated than in fact he turns out to be. The clear brilliance and gaiety of the symphonies, their courtly and gracious good humor typifies the sophistication of the society into which their composer was received with such widespread affection. In performance they demand complete cohesiveness and a close attention to structure. The music must move with a sense of happy urgency. This the orchestra did not achieve. There were solo passages very well handled, some that were not, but on the whole the music tended to come in bunches, each fairly well executed, but not always connected with the next bunch. Often the general effect was rather stodgy.

After the intermission the story was quite different. Mr. Johannesen, turned in a brilliant and sensitive interpretation of the Brahms second piano concerto in which the orchestra seemed to outdo itself in providing firm support and following his lead without hesitation. This work is one in which is heard a dialogue between orchestra and soloist that is truly thrilling. As a matter of interpretation, I felt that the piano tempo was a little rapid at the start of the first movement. The important horn part was well executed throughout the concerto. Mr. Johannesen has a fine warm tone color, brilliant execution and great sincerity of style.

The third and fourth movements were especially effective. In the andante the strings maintained good balance and color and produced a satisfactorily singing effect. Both the orchestra and Mr. Gosling deserve great credit for their preparation of the concerto. It is not easy to rehearse an orchestra for a solo artist who has only a limited opportunity to work with the instrumental ensembleespecially for a concerto in which a high quality of team work is essential. The last movement in particular achieved a most satisfying unity and progressed to a very exciting climax. The soloist's interpretation and execution were powerful, exciting, and carefully balanced with the orchestra to achieve a thoroughly satisfying result. It may be hoped the Symphony may secure other soloists of this calibre in the future.

Dog Owners Warned Loose Animals To Bring Citation Into Court

The prevalent practice of allowing dogs to run loose, even in leash-law areas in Monterey County, will cause some dog owners a certain amount of embarrassment, according to a recent announcement by the Monterey County Health Department.

Owners of unlicensed dogs and owners of dogs loose in leash-law areas may be surprised any day to find themselves in court instead of calling at the animal shelter at Marina, the pronouncement stated. Recently designated as peace officers are the Monterey County animal control officers. These men are presently serving all county areas as well as all cities in the county, except Salinas and King-City.

"Where formerly it was necessary for the officer to catch the dog and impound him in order to enforce the dog ordinance, it is now only necessary for him to see and identify the dog. The animal will not necessarily be impounded, but rather the owner will be cited into court," according to Dr. Myron W. Husband, county health officer, under whose authority the Monterey County Animal Shelter functions.

"Because Monterey County is a 'rabies area' it is a matter of public health that the dog ordinances be enforced," said Dr. Husband. "It has become quite evident lately that a good many dog owners, both city and rural, are violating the various dog ordinances. Since all cities, and a few county areas such as Spreckels, Castroville, Marina, and Del Monte Park have leash laws, it has become apparent that added authority must be vested in the officers directly charged with enforcing the ordinances.

"Furthermore," added Dr. Husband, "the enforcement must be carried over into the morning and evening hours when numerous dogs are allowed loose. This practice will now subject the owners to court action, without the necessity of having to impound the dog. Since it is the owner who is actually in violation, there seems to be little reason why the general public should have to stand the expense of impounding dogs belonging to known owners."

Dr. D. L. Caswell, public health veterinarian, said, "It seems to me that the animal shelter should be maintained as a clearing house for stray, ownerless, or lost dogs, and that no dog, the owner of which is known, should be impounded. With the shelter personnel designated as peace officers with the authority to cite owners into court, the number of dogs impounded should be materially reduced."

In any case, it was added, the plan for the men will include working at various hours, daylight to dark, with the intention of stopping as much as possible the promiscuous release of dogs after regular workday hours.

MPC Free Programs Show Popular Response During Past Season

Residents of Monterey Peninsula, in addition to the general public, benefitted from the cultural programs which have become an accepted part of the services rendered by Monterey Peninsula College. From January, 1964 through January, 1965, MPC has presented 44 events to the public free of charge, according to a college report.

Under the auspices of the evening division, eight major speakers appeared in the Armory in the MPC Evening Lecture Series; and there were four faculty lecturers in the MPC-AAUQ-sponsored "Operation Update" series, also one visiting lecturer-in-residence, and one "Critique" lecture. Also sponsored by the evening division were double showings of ten award-winning films.

Twenty concerts were given by the college music department. These included three band concerts, four student choral concerts,

Teacher Instruction Class At River School

The class will meet from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. Tuesdays, beginning February 23, in Room 18 of the Carmel River School, Monte Verde and 15th Streets.

Instructing the class will be Dr. Charles W. Bell, assistant professor of science education at San Jose State College and other members of the science education department staff. Enrollment priority will be given to Carmel Unified School District and Monterey City School District teachers.

two jazz concerts, one strings program, one woodwind program, two MPC Community Chorus concerts—one in the Carmel Mission Basilica, the other on campus; one Monterey County Symphony Orchestra concert, one composers' concert, and five professional recitals in the MPC Recital Series.

Public response has been evidenced by packed houses, it was reported, and many such programs are being scheduled for the coming months.

Concert To Feature Trio From Mexico

The Trio Italiano de Mexico, one of the foremost three-string chamber music groups concertizing today, will appear in the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall tomorrow evening at 8:30.

Sponsored by the MPC music department, the concert is open to the public without charge.

The group, composed of violinist Renato Biffoli, violoncellist Paolo Salvi and violist Armando Lavalle, is famed for presenting premieres of contemporary music on both sides of the Atlantic.

A highlight of tomorrow's program will be the playing of "Partita a Tre," by Franco Margola. Also featured will be Haydn's "Trio in C Major, Opus 32"; Beethoven's "Serenata in D Major, Opus 8"; and Schubert's "Trio in B Flat Major."

New Comedy Opens At League Of Women Studio Next Week End

One of the most heart-warming comedies of the year, combining farce and near tragedy, "Farewell, Farewell Eugene," opens next Friday evening at the Studio Theatre-Restaurant in Carmel.

The action of the play takes place in a shabbily genteel basement apartment on Manhattan's lower East Side, and concerns a couple of sisters, Gert and Minnie, and their cousin Peonie, who supplement their income with handpainted greeting cards. There is also a mysterious brother, Eugene, who is supposed to be needing help in the wilds of Africa. The madcap situations literally explode with laughter and lively entertain-

Michael Keller directs the performance, which is produced by Betty Hackett and Royden Martin. The play begins at 8:30 on Friday, Saturday and Sunday evening, with dinner being served from 6:30 to 7:30.

Ocean Voyage Prize In Essay Contest

High school students of all northern California schools have an opportunity to win ocean voyages by entering the 30th annual Harold Harding Memorial Essay Contest sponsored by the Propeller Club of the United States, according to Captain B. B. Leland of the U.S. Coast Guard, and chairman of the Club.

The subject of the essay contest this year is, "The American Merchant Marine — Key to Trade and Defense." Winners will receive a variety of prizes ranging from trips on American vessels, to merchandise, Government bonds, and other items of value. Students may contact their high school teachers for details of the contest, which ends March 31.

Voters Asks Support In Drive For Funds

All responsible voters care about good government, of course, but who really does something about it? The League of Women Voters does, and during the coming week the organization will offer an opportunity to interested people to help it do an even better job by contributing to its financial sup-

As a part of their responsibility, League members attend meetings of city councils, school boards and planning commissions as trained observers. Often the League observer is the only representative of the public present as officials, make decisions affecting citizens' lives and property. Also in the public interest, they register voters, explain ballot issues and distribute non-partisan information to groups and individuals, and during the past year they distributed locally more than 4,500 League publications.

Such subjects as the effectiveness of the California Legislature, the development of human resources within the nation and, on the local level, problems of youth, with special emphasis on law enforcement and the courts are studied by members with unbiased consideration. After thorough study and a clear-cut agreement by the membership, women who belong to the League are able to speak out on these matters as well as State constitutional reform, expansion of international trade, and the need for area planning.

Members of the Monterey Peninsula chapter will call on business, professional and lay citizens of the communities next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday to seek their support of the organization's numerous non-partisan services. For anyone who is overlooked

Red Cross Membership Drive Starts March 1

Key workers in the Red Cross campaign for members and funds have been announced by Ted Fehring, 1965 chairman. The most important chairmanship, that of the Carmel residential area, will be shared by Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bissantz. Long active in the local chapter, this will be the first assignment for Mr. Bissantz since his return from Geneva, where he represented the chapter at the International Red Cross Centenary in 1963.

Other chairmen are: Tom Hefling, Carmel Valley; Mrs. H. V. Alward, Pebble Beach residential area; Mrs. Hal Boyd, Carmel Highlands; and Mrs. William Colby, Big Sur.

Mrs. Julien von Meier, fund drive secretary, will be at chapter headquarters each morning from 9:00 to noon to assist captains and workers. The drive will start March 1.

Stevenson Seniors Scholarship Finalists

Three senior students of Robert Louis Stevenson School have been named as finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Corporation competition, according to word received by Headmaster Robert U. Ricklefs.

The boys honored for their significant achievements are Douw Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond M. Smith of Carmel; Robert Reynolds, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. James Reynolds of Pebble Beach; and Charles Daly, son of General and Mrs. John Harold Daly of Pacific Grove. Smith is presently completing his secondary school work at the Montana School in Switzerland. He will later attend Williams University, while Daly goes to Princeton, and Reynolds expects to go to Stanford.

Lindsay Jeffers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donnan C. Jeffers, is one of the four Stevenson seniors qualifying as semi-finalists in the California State Scholarship program. Lindsay, who will receive his diploma in June, is now in Ireland with his family and is completing his preparatory school work by independent study and correspondence.

Other semi-finalists considered for scholarships of from $300 to $1,500 are Charles D. Daly of Pacific Grove, Klaus J. Porzig of Monterey, and Fred N. Gaeden of Pebble Beach.

"repent" me?

The world around us is always changing, and so are we. It's the only way we can progress. That basically is what "repent" means — to change our thinking, for the better. At the deepest level, it's a spiritual liberating process, impelling man towards his divine destiny. Hear this public lecture, "Why Not Change Your Thinking?" by ROY J. LINNIG. a member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Today in the ancient city of Shechem, an archeological team is making excavations, digging out one of the most important sites in Old Testament history. Professor Ernest Wright of Harvard University has done a book entitled SHECHEM, THE BIOGRAPHY OF A BIBLICAL CITY, in which he describes the entire process of choosing a site for excavation, and proceeding to carry out the digging. The book is illustrated with photographs of relics and maps of building, located in this ancient city forty-one miles north of Jerusalem in Jordan.

Another in the University of Oklahoma series on American Indiams is THE SHOSHONIS, SENTINELS OF THE ROCKIES by Virginia Cole Trenholm. The Shoshonis were not a warlike tribe and for this reason the book recounts the story of their cultural changes more than it does of their conquests. These Indians lived partly in California, and many names in this book will be familiar to the reader.

A year ago Merle Miller was hired to do a television script for Jackie Cooper and Evan Rhodes was his collaborator. Just for fun, they kept a record of everything they did and said during the ensuing weeks and they have now written the grisly business into a riotous book entitled ONLY YOU, DICK DARLING!! Don't miss this

Dr. Anna Hedgeman was born in Iowa and raised in Minnesota. After graduation from college she started for Mississippi to teach in a negro college. The train was a Jim Crow train for Anna Hedgeman is a negro. She was totally unprepared for the shock that awaited her. The raw and brutal treatment of Southern segregation set her life in a pattern, dedicating her to the fight for her own people. Her books is entitled THE TRUMPET SOUNDS.

"Speaking with tongues" is what it was called in the New Testament and so we call it today, and far from being a lost thing in our day, it is spreading more rapidly today than at any time in its history. John Sherrill, an editor of Guideposts magazines, has a new book on this spiritual phenomenon which he has entitled THEY SPEAK WITH OTHER TONGUES. This library has another book on the same subject which is entitled TONGUE SPEAKING, AN EXPRESSION IN SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE, by Morton Kelsey. This is a fascinating subject and one which cannot be shrugged off as being either a fake or a mere crackpot theory.

Today a great many people are being given intelligence tests or aptitude tests or some other type of test, and after they are finished most of them know little or nothing about what has been going on, nor do they understand the results. Comes a new book "to serve the American family as a permanent guide to educational testing," and it comes none too soon. Written by Gene Hawes, it is entitled EDUCATIONAL TESTING FOR THE MILLIONS. This is not an easy book to read quickly and then immediately become an expert in educational testing. But if you are genuinely interested in the subject, a thorough reading of this book may lead you out of confusion into comprehension.

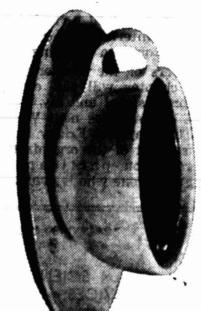

Someday some pedestrian standing out in the street to drop books into our drive-up book return is going to be hit by a fast-turning car and hospitalized. Dagnabit, that box is for drivers who cannot find a parking space or are in a terrific hurry. There is a book return by the front door for pedestrians. The risks people run!

LINES FROM LOIS AND COLE PORTER

NIGHT AND DAY this is a fascinating house. Panoramic ocean view days, interesting night lighting on swimming pool and patio areas as well as the house. Fabulous home for entertaining. Master bedroom suite and 2 smaller bedrooms. Kitchen has everything. Priced at $55,000, good terms, or owner would consider a trade for the valley.

DON'T FENCE ME IN-There's no need to feel cooped up in this ocean view home south of Carmel because almost 3 acres go with this great, big wonderful old landmark home, 5 bedrooms, 5 baths, etc. $60,000.

JUST ONE OF THOSE THINGS Just one of those odd contemporaries which only those with more advanced tastes can appreciate. A few blocks from the beach and town and you can name your own terms on the $53,500 price; 3 bedrooms, 2 baths.

YOU'D BE SO NICE TO COME HOME TO, you wonderful little house with your great big living room opening to the secluded patio, your two bedrooms and baths, your nice kitchen, your paneling, beamed ceilings, and your price, $35,000.

YOU DO SOMETHING TO ME — If way-out architecture "does something" for you, you can make a wonderful deal right now on a three bedroom, two bath home in a top south-of-Ocean location. Price is $51,500.

LET'S DO IT. Let's take this contemporary on Lower Trail with its fine ocean view, and roll up our sleeves and give it the love and affection and a few buckets of paint it needs. If you have a flair and imagination, here's your chance. The price is $33,500.

SO IN LOVE with the magnificent oak tree right in the middle of where the front yard should be that this architect made a walk right through it and made it the focal point of the whole property. Interesting walled patio surrounds the front courtyard. $52,500.

YOU'RE THE TOP-of the world, that is. Small, delightful adobe home, beautiful swimming pool and patio area, all on a 3 acre knoll overlooking the Carmel Valley Village, but so situated that the village itself is out of sight. Greatest hideaway we've ever seen. Price is $52,500.

YOU'VE GOT THAT THING: "Carmel charm" is what you've got in great abundance. This means near town, a lovely lot with oaks and a weathered fence. Fireplace. Two stories with an English cottage air. Four bedrooms. And the beautiful part is that it is all remodeled with best quality everything; it's vacant and you can move right in. Price $45,000.

ANYTHING GOES: You can take this house, which admittedly needs paint and some competent redecorating, give it a treatment, and wind up with a very lovely 4 bedroom home on a tree-covered lot near the High School. The price is only $35,000 for this great family home.

TRUE LOVE is what you'll feel for this Cape Cod type on Randall Way — that unusually nice neighborhood of fine, beautifully maintained homes. The yard, especially, will win your affections immediately, and there's a big enclosed lanai room as well as an open patio in the rear garden. $47,500 is the price for this 3 bedroom home with a full dining room.

WUNDERBAR to be right on the bus line, and especially in such a cute little house with its shake roof, rustic double-wall construction, central heat, walk-in closets and delightful yard. Delightful price, too — $29,500.

LET'S MISBEHAVE. Let's do something different this time. Let's buy the most unusual contemporary in Carmel Highlands, $59,500 and it's full of creative touches by the designer-owner which just couldn't be duplicated.

Roadside Council Seeks Scenic Highway Help

Substantial encouragement to California's State Scenic Highway Plan, higher priority for esthetic and human values in highway planning, encouragement to our Division of Highways to make use of scenic e as ement acquisition rights, and recognition of the need for more and better roadside conservation legislation at state and local levels, are some of the objectives outlined by the California Roadside Council.

The Council is urging that letters of commendation be sent to Senator Thomas H. Kuchel, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., approving his co-sponsorship of a "scenic easement bill," which proposes matching federal funds to states for the purchase of scenic easements.

Emphasis during the past few years has been on the need for making the landscape architect's skills an integral part of advance highway planning and highway location, according to the Council Bulletin. In all parts of the world, the most beautiful highways are those blended into the landscape with the artistry of fine sculpture, and California should be in the forefront of this kind of planning. This is the aim and purpose of the California Roadside Council, which is now engaged in a drive to solicit funds for its support.

Mrs. Belle Wilson

Mrs. Belle Esther Wilson, a resident since 1954, died in a local nursing home on Sunday after a period of failing health.

Mrs. Wilson, who was born in Detroit, Michigan on April 13, 1880, was the wife of the late Richard Wilson. She made her home in Auburn from 1929 until 1953, when she retired after lengthy service as director of the Welfare Department of Placer County. Surviving her are several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services for Mrs. Wilson were held on Wednesday in the Chapel of the Hills, Auburn, followed by burial in the Auburn District Cemetery. The Paul Mortuary was in charge of local arrangements.

Capt. H. Gleason

Captain Henry Miller Gleason (USN ret.), long an active participant in community affairs, died yesterday at his home after a lengthy illness.

A visitor here since 1920, Captain Gleason and his late wife, Minnie, made Carmel their permanent home in 1932. At the time of his death, he shared his home with his brother-in-law, Dr. Edward W. McCormick, and his sister-in-law, Miss Anna W. McCormick. He leaves a nephew and a micce.

A native of Hartford, Connecticut, where he was born in 1876, Captain Gleason graduated from the U.S. Naval Acadamy in 1899 and was a veteran of three wars, the Spanish-American and World Wars I and II. He came to California in 1920, when he retired from active duty, but entered the service again in World War II. He was a member of The Group, an informal club which meets weekly for discussion of subjects of mutual interest, and of the Carmel American Legion Post. He was also a member and active

TOM OLIVER

Mr. Carroll McKee, owner-manager of The Pine Inn announced the appointment this week of a new resident manager, Mr. Tom Oliver, as part of a continuing program to improve facilities and services commensurate with Mr. McKee's acquisition of this famed Carmel landmark.

Mr. Oliver was born in Sheffield, England, Yorkshire and attended elementary school there. His introduction to hotel management came first at London's Westminister Hotel. At the conclusion of this two year course he accepted a position with the Grand Hotel in Nice, France to further his experience while learning the French language. A year and a half later he returned to London as receptionist at the famous Ritz Hotel. He remained there for two years, during which time he became acquainted with Bill Wood of Carmel Valley who was then visiting in England. The impression he made on Mr. Wood was sufficient to cause Mr. Wood to ultimately act as sponsor for Tom, and to arrange a position for him at the Mirador Hotel in Sacramento in 1959. He was eventually able to migrate to Carmel Valley where he enjoyed four years of service at the Carmel Valley Inn. He leaves there to accept the position of Resident Manager under Mr. McKee's auspices at The Pine Inn.

Tom Oliver, with his Britishborn wife, Margaret, have located in Carmel at 5th and Guadalupe, with their young sons, David, aged four, and Mark, just turning one year. Tom is grateful for the opportunity to initiate the European influence in dining and service to the established facilities of The Pine Inn under the new management of Mr. McKee.

worker at All Saints' Episcopal

Private funeral services will be held Saturday at the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea in Pacific Grove, with the Reverend David Hill of All Saints' Episcopal Church officiating. The Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Friends wishing to make contributions in the memory of Captain Gleason may do so in the form of donations to the Carmel Foundation, Box 3434, Carmel.
